Congratulations!

We are so pleased to welcome you as an accepted student to the Landmark College Summer Transition to College Program! Like it has for so many students who have attended the program before you, we are confident that your participation in the program will provide you with a transformational experience. Not only will you prepare for that crucial first semester of college, but you will make good friends that will last long after the 2-week program is over.

This guide has been put together to give you an overview of the program and how to best prepare for your two weeks on campus. Our goal when you arrive on campus this July is to have you say “I’m ready”!

Enrollment Forms & Program Updates

One of the first things you should start doing is completing the various forms that will be required for program registration. The more forms you complete and return ahead of time, the less time you will spend in line on your arrival to campus.

Beginning March 15, 2019, all of the forms you will need to complete can be found on our Orientation page for the Transition to College Summer Program on the College’s website (Landmark.edu > Student Life > New Students > Transition to College (the Transition to College Program link is in the left menu).

New Student Orientation

For Students

New Student Orientation is your introduction to becoming a student and community member at Landmark College. We have planned a program that will do three things:

- Give you a chance to meet and make connections with your fellow classmates.
- Help you acclimate to your new living & learning environment by giving you time to settle into your residence hall and get to know your way around campus.
- Help you prepare for the first week of your academic program by introducing you to the program and some of the services available to you as a student.

For Families

In addition to the student programs, the College will offer optional orientation programs and workshops for families. These are intended to provide more in-depth information about the program, and give an opportunity for families to ask any question or raise any specific concerns before they leave campus.

The Academic Program

Session Overview

Students in the Transition to College Program will all enroll in a college lecture course, a College Writing and a Reading and Study Skills seminar, as well as a series of workshops, all of which are intended to introduce students to college-level expectations and situations they might encounter during their first semester on a college campus.

Together, these courses, seminars and workshops are designed to help students:

- Discover strategies for working with the different types of teaching styles and formats they will experience in college
- Become familiar with the requirements for academic writing, including structure and organization, diction, and mechanics
- Practice process strategies for approaching academic writing tasks
- Review and practice the study skills essential for success in introductory college courses, including note-taking, active reading, test-preparation, and time-management

- Explore the nature of learning disabilities in general, including the neurological basis of learning disabilities and ADHD, and the public laws that cover learning disabilities at the postsecondary level
- Discover personal learning strengths and difficulties as the basis for strategy development, self-advocacy, and the use of college resources
- Create a plan of action to support the transition to college

Summer 2019: Required Courses and Workshops

CORE COURSE: COLLEGE LECTURE - This class, which covers the first few weeks of a typical introductory college course, presents students with some of the challenges of lecture-style teaching, handling a college-level reading load, taking a unit exam, and writing a research paper. All students in the Transition to College Program take this class together.

LEARNING SKILLS SEMINAR - In this seminar, students learn about the study skills and strategies required in college — including organization, active reading, note taking, and test preparation — and explore the use of assistive technology. Class size is 7 to 12 students.

This class offers opportunities for students to consider different ways to approach various challenges they will face, including reading load, time management, and prioritization. Students are asked to analyze their own performance in the core lecture and identify areas of strength and relative weakness, allowing them to better identify essential strategies for future college work.

COLLEGE WRITING SEMINAR - Writing for college courses is much different than writing for high school. This seminar reviews some of those differences and helps students to move from summarizing a reading assignment to analyzing the reading assignment. Also covered are other college writing basics, such as writing in drafts, using sources while avoiding plagiarizing, and writing succinctly. Class size is 7 to 12 students.

CO-CURRICULAR WORKSHOPS - Students participate in a series of additional workshops designed to encourage development of self-understanding and self-advocacy. Workshop sessions introduce students to assistive technology, use of the library to research and write a paper, the neurological basis of learning differences, and laws related to learning disabilities, ADHD, and ASD in college settings. Students also learn about community living, li
