WHO LEARN DIFFERENTLY

LANDMARK COLLEGE

Putney, Vermont
6:1 Ratio
Learning at LC is an intensely personal journey. Our student/faculty ratio of 6:1 is one of the best in the country.
There’s no greater adventure than successful learning.

When you grasp a new concept … become engrossed in a subject … or push yourself to a higher level of discovery, learning becomes exhilarating. You want to do more and learn more.

If you learn differently, Landmark College can help you develop the tools and strategies needed for successful and life-changing learning. You will discover how to fully access your talents and strengths, and see yourself and your future in a new way.
At LC, you get to “be you.”
There’s zero pressure to hide your LD, no need to ask for special accommodations. It’s a liberating and empowering environment that allows you to focus fully on yourself and your learning goals.

WHERE YOU CAN BE YOURSELF

A classic New England college setting — and much more.
At LC’s beautiful campus in southern Vermont, you’ll find challenging studies, inspiring professors, career-focused majors, a fun and engaging campus life, and unforgettable opportunities such as internships and study abroad — in short, all the essential elements of a great college experience.

You’ll also join a community where every student shares the bond of learning differently. LC exclusively serves students with learning disabilities (such as dyslexia), ADHD, autism spectrum disorder, and gifted LD — and that transforms every part of your learning experience.
At Landmark College, we teach differently! LC was founded more than 30 years ago as the first college in the country to exclusively serve students who learn differently.

Today, we continue to earn acclaim for our innovative educational model, the skill and commitment of our professors, and the impressive accomplishments of our students.

Here, you will discover your own “best way” to learn, becoming more focused and self-confident as you achieve greater academic success. Your learning will be assisted through the latest technology — such as text-to-speech programs, digital textbooks, and powerful software — as well as LC’s added support services in writing, reading, and study skills.
You will be challenged to perform your very best. Students say they “learned how to learn” again at Landmark College. Our faculty members are experts in their disciplines, and include highly credentialed and nationally known educators, researchers, writers, artists, and scientists. They adapt their classes around the unique learning style of each student. The result is a learning experience that will exceed your expectations … and ignite in you a new love of learning.
WHERE YOU CAN FIND YOUR PATH

At Landmark College, you can discover the right path to achieve your goals.

Here, your studies begin where you need to begin. We have three distinct points of entry — full college credit, partial credit, and non-credit — to allow you to get the support you need to succeed.

Our academic programs will not only challenge you intellectually, but also allow you to explore your talents and discover what inspires you. Our faculty and advisors will help you find the path that's right for you, every step of the way.

Our new Nicole Goodner MacFarlane Science, Technology & Innovation Center (pictured) is the first building in the country designed specifically for teaching science and mathematics to students who learn differently. It is also home to the Landmark College Institute for Research and Training (LCIRT), which pioneers LD research and looks for new ways to improve teaching and learning. Our students often partner with LCIRT on its research to gain new insights on how we learn.

LC’s Morgan Le Fay Center for Advances in Economics, Business, and Entrepreneurship Education leverages the entrepreneurial spirit of our students.
Measurable Alumni Success

According to the National Student Clearinghouse, LC students who complete their associate degree are more likely to earn their bachelor’s degree than the national average, and do so at a significantly higher rate than other college students who learn differently.

Through LC’s own guided programs, our students and faculty have explored the people, cultures, and politics of such countries as Australia, Botswana, Costa Rica, Japan, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom.
Put Your Learning to Work

At LC, professional internships open new doors of learning. You can gain hands-on experience, determine if your major is truly your passion, and make invaluable career connections through our Office of Transfer, Career & Internship Services.

Just ask Omoefe Ogbeide, a B.A. in Liberal Arts major at LC, who completed a Washington, D.C., internship at the Office of Policy and Program Development, which oversees regulations and inspections for meat and poultry products for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Omoefe is interested in law, but struggles with reading and working memory. Her internship convinced her that a career in law is achievable.
“At LC, techniques like active reading have enabled me to comprehend and stay engaged with my reading. That was critical to success in my internship, which demanded a lot of reading and writing.

“But I always saw my struggles with reading and writing as a detriment, so I excluded myself from doing certain things, like going to law school. Within weeks of starting my internship, though, I went to an event with Washington’s top 15 law schools and I realized I really could do it!”

The USDA was Omoefe’s second internship experience. She also was a full-time intern at Fulflex Elastomerics Worldwide, a Moore Company, in Brattleboro, Vt.
Outside the classroom, what is life really like at LC?

We are a residential community where nearly 98 percent of our students live on campus. That means an active campus life, with dozens of ways for you to express yourself, play on a team, develop your leadership skills, and make a difference as a volunteer.

Most of all, you’ll forge friendships that will last a lifetime.

GET READY TO ENGAGE

If you love the thrill of applause, take to the stage in an LC theater production.

Whether you’re a player or a fan, you’ll be proud to be a Shark — led by LC’s official mascot, Finn the Shark.

Campus speakers include renowned guests like Dr. Temple Grandin.

The campus library is a favorite place to meet and relax between classes, connect with a study group, or research a paper.

Let it snow! Vermont is paradise for skiers and snowboarders. You can practice on campus — then head for nearby slopes, which offer special deals for LC students.

The outdoors become your classroom, like this photography class in New Hampshire’s White Mountains.

If you’re not up for skiing, give snowshoeing a try!

You don’t have to look far to find something to do at LC!

Our campus adventure course is a metaphor for what happens every day at LC: we reach for the sky.

The Click Recreation Center’s climbing wall is an LC “must do.”
On campus, the Click Family Sports Center features a basketball court, lines for volleyball and tennis, a climbing wall, and a resistance pool. There are also several fitness and weight room areas, and an adventure course on campus. Coming in Fall 2016: a new all-weather athletic field.

And just minutes from campus are some of the country’s best natural resources for camping, hiking, biking, kayaking, fishing, rock climbing, horseback riding, skiing, and snowboarding.
Vermont is known for its one-of-a-kind towns. LC’s neighbors — Putney and Brattleboro — are no exception. There, you will find good eats, interesting bookstores and shops, and creative artisans at work. (You are welcome to bring a car to campus, but LC’s shuttle makes getting around town easy.)

When you’re ready for more “big city” sights and sounds, our location offers quick access to the sports, culture, history, and nightlife of Boston and New York City. And don’t overlook New England’s beaches, where whale watching and even quality surfing make for a memorable getaway.
Only you can decide if the programs and services offered at LC are right for you. But our record of success speaks for itself: our alumni are successful artists, entrepreneurs, researchers, teachers, social workers, lawyers, and more.

You’ll find our alumni pursuing undergraduate and graduate studies at some of our country’s most respected colleges and universities, including Columbia, Northeastern, Harvard, Syracuse, Texas A&M, Vanderbilt, and right here at Landmark. The best way to decide if LC is right for you is to get to know us. Explore our website — and best of all — come visit.
